What is a variable annuity?

A variable annuity is a tax-deferred financial product designed to allow the contract owner to invest in growth potential and provide income for retirement or other long-term life goals. In essence, an annuity is a contractual agreement in which payment(s) are made to an insurance company, which agrees to pay out income or a lump-sum amount at a later date. Variable annuities are subject to market risk, including loss of principal. Earnings are taxable as ordinary income when distributed and may be subject to an additional 10% federal tax if withdrawn before age 59½.

There are certain limitations and restrictions associated with variable annuities. For costs and complete details of coverage, speak to your financial professional/insurance-licensed registered representative. Please note that an annuity contract purchased to fund an IRA or employer-sponsored plan will not provide tax-deferral benefits beyond those already provided by the Internal Revenue Code.

Tax Advantages

- At every stage – tax-deferred growth potential, tax-free transfers and tax-efficient payouts.
- Earnings, dividends and capital gains are automatically reinvested without creating taxable events.
- Simplified tax-related paperwork.

Protected Premium Death Benefit

- An added layer of protection for the annuity contract owner's beneficiaries. The total amount invested in the contract can be passed on. If withdrawals are made, that amount would be adjusted.
- Flexible — contract owners can invest however they want and can elect to drop the benefit at any time.
- No fee unless the account value falls below the contract owner's total contributions, adjusted for any withdrawals made.
- Applicable fee is a percentage of the gap between the account value and the contract owner's total contributions, ranging from 0.6% at age 65 up to 20% at age 95. The fee is assessed daily and deducted on the contract anniversary.
- The Protected Premium Death Benefit is optional and must be elected at contract issue. The Standard Death Benefit (the contract's account value) is available at no additional fee.

Dollar-Cost Averaging

- Shares are purchased in approximately equal dollar amounts at regular intervals, regardless of what direction the market is moving. As prices of securities rise, fewer units are bought, and as prices fall, more units are bought. Please note that dollar-cost averaging does not guarantee that the contract owner will earn a profit or be protected against losses.
- Automatic and no additional fee.
- The contract owner chooses the timeframe that best suits them: 3, 6 or 12 months.

Optional Rebalancing

- Automatic, no additional fee and tax-free.
- Choose quarterly, semiannually or annually.

Withdrawing Your Money

- No charges for withdrawals.
- There are a variety of distribution options available from Investment Edge®, including automatic required minimum distributions, systematic withdrawals, or, if the contract owner needs early withdrawals, substantially equal payments that avoid the 10% IRS tax penalty.

Income Edge – Tax-Efficient Payment Program

How it works

Income Edge is available for no additional fee and allows investors in non-qualified contracts to elect a customized payment program. When elected, Income Edge is designed to pay out the entire account value via scheduled payments over a set period of time, and a portion of each payment is a return of the contract owner's cost basis, and thus, excludable from taxes.

Income Edge is not a guaranteed income benefit. Payments from Income Edge are based on account value and selected duration.

Income Edge Early Retirement Option

Income Edge can be elected prior to age 59½ and utilizes the excludable amount tax treatment. The payment program is determined by the IRS's life expectancy table used for the RMD method under section 72(q).

Additional Important Information

The Income Edge payment program does not represent a life-contingent annuitization of the Investment Edge® contract. With a life-contingent annuitization, the account value is applied to provide periodic payments for life, and the Investment Edge® contract and all its benefits terminate. After Income Edge election, extra withdrawals are fully taxable, and those in excess of the annual 10% free withdrawal amount will continue to be subject to a withdrawal charge if they are made during the withdrawal charge period. If the contract owner dies after Income Edge is elected, scheduled payments will continue to the beneficiary, and any specified form of death benefit payout that the contract owner selected will be invalidated. There are additional restrictions and limitations,

How payments are determined

This tax-free amount is calculated by dividing the remaining cost basis by the number of years in the payment period selected and will not change once calculated. Once the contract owner begins taking payments, they may not stop or increase the payment, although the contract can be fully redeemed for the then-current account value net of applicable withdrawal charges. The amount of each of the payments made through the Income Edge program is redetermined on an annual basis, meaning that the amount of the payment may vary each year of the payout period. (A combination of adverse investment performance, additional withdrawals and contract fees may reduce the payout period selected. Income values are not guaranteed.)

Income Edge Beneficiary Advantage

Inherited non-qualified contracts can utilize Income Edge's excludable amount tax treatment. Certain restrictions apply.

including age restrictions and the payout period being limited to specific time periods. Please see the prospectus for more information including Investment Edge® fees and charges. It should be noted that Income Edge is not the only way to take payments that are only partially taxed, as this may be accomplished through annuitization of the annuity contract. Unlike a life-contingent annuitization, Income Edge allows for a form of annuity payment that is designed to pay out the entire value of the contract via scheduled payments over a set period of time and provides continuous access to the contract's account value.
